Faculty and staff are encouraged to join SPSU's Week of Welcome for students, a new program that will connect our new students to the campus community during their first days at SPSU. Dean of Students Barry Birckhead hopes that the week will not only provide new students with opportunities to meet and enjoy each other, but will also create an environment where faculty, staff and students can get to know each other on an informal basis. Do join in as you can, to share information and welcome our students.
